

Restricting the content of XM in any way by another broadcasting organization would seem to be a violation of First Amendment rights. . This, along with the change in rule asked for to allow members of the NAB looser restrictions on the number of broadcasting entities owned by an organization, would also appear as an attempt to monopolize the broadcast airwaves and should not be allowed to happen.